DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2-37156 and further in view of Ochiai et al .

JP 2-37156 teaches the claimed device wherein a "tool or the like" has a "rotating table" driven by a worm drive and cams. Ochiai et al teaches a gap for a static pressure bearing "invariably" provided between movable parts in a "rotating table" that is filled with oil. One possessing ordinary skill in the art would be expected to readily modify the teachings of JP 2-37156 with the "opposing surfaces" or gap of Ochiai et al to achieve the benefits of "precision finish machining" as set forth in column 1 of Ochiai et al. Note that the particular drive means used and the "space" or gap dimension and other design variants, such as the positioning of a tool or work upon the table are not alleged by Applicant to be critical and comprise conventional uses well within the level of one having ordinary skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 8-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
